The BAM Poster Collection contains the promotional posters for productions and artistic series of the Brooklyn Academy of Music, the oldest continuously operating performing arts institution in the United States.

Extent

202 cubic feet

Agency History

The Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM), founded in 1861, is a thriving arts center in Brooklyn. Originally conceived as a home for classical music, it quickly broadened to include theater and lectures, and welcomed the star performers of the day. After the original location in Brooklyn Heights was destroyed by fire in 1903, a new theater was built at 30 Lafayette Avenue in Fort Greene, and the BAM campus has now grown to comprise three buildings. Today, BAM is known as an adventurous multi-arts center with world-renowned programming. It is celebrated for its Next Wave Festival in the fall, which presents contemporary experimental performance, and for its spring season of international theater, dance, and opera. BAM also offers a robust roster of film, a comprehensive Education & Humanities program, and serves an important civic function, hosting numerous community events.

Historical/Biographical Note

Highlights of the collection are posters created by notable artists, such as Roy Lichtenstein, and Larry Rivers. The collection reflects not only the programming and marketing emphasis at BAM over this time period, but also graphic design trends over the years.

Scope & Content

The BAM Posters Collection is part of the Brooklyn Academy of Music Archives at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The collection remains among the most comprehensive records of the performing arts in the United States as the posters reflect the history of the oldest continuing performing arts centers in the country. Brooklyn Academy of Music's posters date from 1970 to the present. The collection is comprised of promotional posters for specific productions presented at BAM as well as artistic series such as the Next Wave Festival and DanceAfrica.

Arrangement

Six flat files arranged by production and by poster size. Multiples of individual posters are housed together. Rare posters (those that are unique or signed by artists) are housed in a single drawer of one flat file.
